France's Colonial Legacies Oct 22 2021 In an era of commemoration, France's Colonial Legacies contributes to the debates taking place in France about the place of empire in the contemporary life of the nation, debates that have been underway since the 1990s and that now reach across and society with manifestations in the French parliament, media and universities. France's empire and the gradual process of its loss is one of defining narratives of the contemporary nation, contributing to the construction of its image both on the international stage and at home. Various intellectuals present the imperial period as an historical irrelevance that ended in the years following the Second World War, the contested legacy of France's colonies continue to influence the development of French society in the view of scholars of the postcolonial. This volume surveys theoretical practices and discourses that are played out in a range of arenas, drawing on the expertise of researchers working in the fields of politics, history, studies, literature and film to offer a wide-ranging picture of remembrance in contemporary France. Practical Handbook on European Financial Passports Part 31 2020 Since the creation of the European market, EU financial regulators have set up a unique model of different passports for financial products and services. The EU concept of the financial passport has been a real innovation in the world of international finance. This advanced legal tool is becoming more and more important in the world fund industry. This book is the first to address this topic. It is a unique reference work that gives a holistic view of the development of the financial passport inside and outside the EU. As a comprehensive handbook, it offers a clear idea of the concept and reviews all financial passports throughout the world. It also assists the reader in using the passports by providing quick access to various legal references. In addition, it offers a historical overview of different financial passports and the evolution of the operational processing and its impact on the value chain. Moreover, this version contains a specific part dedicated to the alternative including paths that might be used after the Brexit. The book is intended for lawyers, students and those wishing to expand their knowledge. The author is a senior consultant to a major European banking group. As part of business management studies in Paris and New York, he developed a forward-looking vision for financial passports and has notably supported South American financial regulatory authorities. He established, among others, a dedicated global passport service with a capacity of more than five hundred administrated financial vehicles. In line with regulatory developments, particularly in the EU, he is supporting founders of important funds who are interested in using passports to gain a competitive advantage faster.

European Integration and Postcolonial Sovereignty Games 29 2019 This book examines how sovereignty works in the context of European integration and postcolonialism. Focusing on a group of micro-polities associated with the European Union, it offers a new understanding of international relations in the context of modern sovereignty. This book offers a systematic and comparative analysis of the Overseas Countries and Territories (OCTs), the EU and the four affected Member States: UK, France, the Netherlands and Denmark. Contributors explore how states and like entities play 'sovereignty games' to understand how a group of postcolonial entities may strategically use their ambiguous status in relation to sovereignty. The book examines why former colonies are seeking greater room to manoeuvre on their own, whilst simultaneously developing a relationship to the supranational EU. Methodologically sophisticated, this interdisciplinary volume combines interviews, participant observation, legal and institutional analysis for a new theoretical approach to understanding the strategic possibilities and subjectivity of non-sovereign entities in international politics. Bringing together research on European integration and postcolonial theory, European Integration and Postcolonial Sovereignty Games will be of interest to students and scholars of International Relations, EU studies, Postcolonial studies, International Law and Political Science. Treaty Series Cumulative Index No. 2805 2020 This is the fifty-third volume of the United Nations Treaty Series Cumulative Index. This volume covers the treaties and international agreements contained in volumes 2801 to 2850 of the United Nations Treaty Series (UNTS). The volume is divided into two main sections, each preceded by an explanatory note. In the first section, "Chronological Index", treaties and international agreements are listed in the order of the dates on which they were first adopted, signed or opened for signature or accession, etc. Any subsequent agreements and amendments relating to the original agreement are to be found under the date of the original instrument. The second section, "Alphabetical Index", refers to treaties and international agreements by a party and by subject.

Rivals in Arms May 05 2020 As the UK leaves the European Union and as the multilateral order is increasingly under stress, bilateral security more important than ever. Among such relationships, the UK-France partnership has become particularly critical in the past decades. Alice Pannier-Bronner's Rivals in Arms reveals the history of the growing special partnership between Europe's two leading military powers in the twenty-first century. Using an innovative analytical framework rooted in theories of cooperation and negotiation, this book exposes the challenges the two countries have faced in developing, equipping, and employing their military capabilities together. Through a decade-long study, Pannier-Bronner highlights how France and the UK have endeavoured to make their partnership more effective and resistant to domestic and international shifts, including Brexit. Building on more than a hundred interviews with key stakeholders and unmatched access to primary sources, Rivals in Arms takes the reader behind the scenes, unveiling the complicated but crucial defence relationship between France and the UK - a relationship that is critical to the future of Euro-Atlantic security.

Handbook of Nuclear Proliferation 25 2019 The chapters of this proposed volume are intended to shed light on the diverse themes surrounding nuclear proliferation, a very important issue area in international security. Each of the six major sections addresses an aspect of nuclear proliferation that will be crucial in determining the future trajectory of global politics in the years to come. The first section examines the major thematic issues underlying the contemporary discourse on nuclear proliferation. How do we understand this period in proliferation? What accounts for a taboo on the use of nuclear weapons so far and will it survive? What is the present state of nuclear deterrence models built during the Cold War? What is the relationship between the pursuit of civilian nuclear energy and the risks of proliferation? Why are we witnessing a move away from non-proliferation to counter-proliferation? The second section gives an overview of the evolving nuclear policies of the five established nuclear powers: the USA, Russia, the United Kingdom, France and the People's Republic of China. Section three looks at the three de facto nuclear states: India, Pakistan and Israel. The fourth section examines the three problem areas in the proliferation matrix today - Iran, North Korea and the potent mix of non-state actors and nuclear weapons. The fifth section sheds light on an important issue often ignored during discussions of nuclear proliferation - cases where states have made a deliberate policy choice of either renouncing their nuclear weapons programme, or have decided to remain a threshold state. The cases of South Africa, Egypt and Japan will be the focus of this section. The final section will examine the present state of the global nuclear non-proliferation regime, which most observers agree is currently facing a crisis of credibility. The three pillars of this regime - the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty (CTBT), and the Fissile Material Cut-Off Treaty (FMCT) - will be examined. This is followed by an analysis of the present trends and prospects for US-Russia nuclear arms control. The impact of missile defenses and the US-India civilian nuclear energy cooperation pact will be examined so as to ascertain whether they have weakened or strengthened the global non-proliferation regime. The chapters in this volume aim to document the increasing complexity of the global nuclear proliferation dynamic and the inability of the international community to cope with a rapidly changing strategic milieu. The future, in all likelihood, will be very different from the past, and the chapters in this volume will develop a framework that may help gain a better understanding of the forces that will shape the nuclear proliferation debate in the years to come.

The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces 2021 The armed forces of Europe have undergone a dramatic transformation since the collapse of the Soviet Union. The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces provides the first comprehensive analytical study of national security and defence policies, strategies, doctrines, capabilities, and military operations, as well as the alliances and partnerships of European armed forces in response to the security challenges Europe has faced since the end of the cold war. A truly cross-European comparison of national security and defence policies and armed forces remains a notable blind spot in the existing literature. The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces aims to fill this gap with fifty-one contributions on European defence and international security from around the world. The special focus on: country-based assessments of the evolution of the national defence policies of Europe's major, medium, and lesser powers since the end of the cold war; the alliances and security partnerships developed by European states to cooperate in the provision of national security; the security challenges faced by European states and their armed forces, ranging from interstate through intra-state and transnational; the national security strategies and doctrines developed in response to these challenges; the military capabilities, and the underlying defence and technological industrial base, both of which bear to support national strategies and doctrines; and, finally, the national or multilateral military operations by European armed forces. The contributions to The Handbook collectively demonstrate the fruitfulness of giving analytical precedence back to the comparative study of national defence policies and armed forces across Europe.

Narratives of the French Empire 29 May 2022 Using fiction as a historical source, this study investigates how the French empire was constructed and infused with meaning at three historical moments: 1784, 1835, and 1938. Showing how literary and more general conceptions of French colonialism were influenced by an awareness of how rival European powers had negotiated conquest and disengagement from empire, it illustrates how loss and nostalgia for imperial pasts helped shape the French colonial enterprise across its various manifestations.

Writing Postcolonial France 24 Dec 2021 This book is the first literary study to examine how France has failed to come to terms with the end of its empire, and is now haunted by the legacy of its colonial relationship with North Africa. It examines the form assumed by the ghosts of the past from a range of genres (travel writing, detective fiction, life writing, historical fiction, women's writing) produced within metropolitan France and assesses the implications of haunting for French cultural memory.

Countering Terrorism in Britain and France 13 June 2021 Though Britain and France have faced a similar threat from Islamist terrorism in the years following September 11 2001, they have often responded in different ways to the challenges it posed. This groundbreaking work offers the first comparative analysis of counterterrorist policies and operations in these two leading liberal democracies. Challenging the widely held view that the nature of a state's counterterrorist policies depends on the threat it is facing, Foley suggests that such an argument fails to explain why France mounted more invasive police and intelligence operations against Islamist terrorism than Britain and created a more draconian anti-terrorist regime. Drawing on institutional and constructivist theories, he develops a novel theoretical framework that puts counterterrorism in its organisational, institutional and broader societal context. With particular appeal to students and specialists of International Relations and Security Studies, this book will engage readers in the central debates surrounding anti-terrorist policy.

France, Germany, and Nuclear Deterrence 10 Dec 2020 The legacy of World War II and the division of Eastern and Western Europe produced a radical asymmetry, and a variety of misgivings and misunderstandings, in French and German experiences of the nuclear age. At the same time, however, political actors in both nations continually labored to reconcile their differences and engage in productive strategic dialogue. Grounded in cutting-edge research and freshly discovered archival sources, France, Germany, and Nuclear Deterrence teases out the paradoxical nuclear interactions between France and Germany from 1954 to the present day.

Transformations in Trade Politics 19 2021 This book examines the evolution and application of participatory trade politics in West Africa and discusses the theoretical implications for political economy and global governance approaches to trade policy-making. The author traces the of a network of West African global justice Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO), local NGO and movement platforms, and trade unions in negotiations for an Economic Partnership Agreement with the European Union. Building on this empirical analysis, she develops a theoretical framework of trade policy formation that is not limited to conceptualizing trade as a policy field aimed exclusively at regulating exporting and activities in the global economy. Instead, she analyzes how material and ideational spheres interact in the way in which communities set the enable them to trade across long distances. Attempting to reconcile demands for inclusivity with current economic policy-making, the author the way in which we theoretically pose questions of who makes trade policy decisions, through which mechanisms and why trade policy-ma change, or resist change. Transformations in Trade Politics will be of interest to students and scholars of International Political Economy, Global Governance, Social Movement Studies, International Economic Relations, International Trade Relations, African Politics, The Politics of African/International Development, EU politics and EU-African Relations.

The Law of the Sea 20 2021 Compiled by the United Nations Office of Legal Affairs, this bibliography covers 20 subject categories based on major topics of the United Nations Convention of the Law of the Sea. It is intended for the use of those interested in ocean affairs and the matters in general and in the UN Convention on the Law in the Sea.

Social Media and Employment Law: An International Survey 27 2019 In the last few years, social media has become the primary way of communicating, not only among friends and colleagues but also between employers and employees and between companies and consumers. For employers, the phenomenon offers great opportunities, but also concomitant dangers due primarily to use of social media by employees and representatives. Written in the context of employment laws as well as privacy laws, this book surveys the state of the law in over thirty key including most of the developed countries of Europe, Asia, and North America and major developing countries worldwide. The publication arose from a seminar prepared by the editors and others at which it was clearly identified that internationally operating employers need a comprehensive friendly multinational summary on employment and labour law questions arising in connection with the use of social media. The book is divided into country chapters, each written by a known local specialist. In order to easily 'navigate' through the issues for each country, the chapters follow a uniform structure, covering the applicable statutory regimes, case law, useful checklists, and recommendations. Among the issues and topics are the following: - employees' entitlement to use social media at the workplace; - whether employers can require the use of social media by the right of employers to monitor employees' use of social media outside the workplace; - employers' potential liability for employees' misuse of social media; - right of employee representatives to use employers' equipment for social media purposes; - employers' remedies against misuse of social media by employees and employee representatives; - development and drafting of a social media policy; and - role of social media in employer-employee relations. No other publication exists providing interested parties with a practical and strategic guide to legal issues affecting the use of social media in the workplace. With its easy-to-use country-by-country format and its expert recommendations, this unique resource will prove itself as an indispensable handbook for lawyers, human resources professionals, and in-house counsel advising or working for internationally operating businesses. It will be of inestimable value for academics and policymakers concerned with the legal ramifications of social media use in the workplace.

Treaty Series Cumulative Index 17 2021 This is the fifty-second volume of the United Nations Treaty Series Cumulative Index. This volume covers the treaties and international agreements contained in volumes 2751 to 2800 of the United Nations Treaty Series (UNTS). The volume is divided into two main sections, each preceded by an explanatory note. In the first section, "Chronological Index", treaties and international agreements are listed in the order of the dates on which they were first adopted, signed or opened for signature or accession, etc. Any subsequent agreements and amendments relating to the original agreement are to be found under the date of the original instrument. The second section, "Alphabetical Index", refers to treaties and international agreements by a party and by subject.

Transfer Pricing Aspects of Intra-Group Financing 08 2020 For corporate managers, maximization of the profits and the market value of the company is a prime objective. The logical working out of this principle in multinational enterprises has led to an intense focus on transfer pricing between companies, principally on account of the very attractive tax advantages made possible. Inevitably, numerous countries have established transfer pricing legislation designed to combat the distortions and manipulations that are inherent in such transactions. This important book, one of the first in-depth analysis of the current worldwide working of transfer pricing in intra-group financing and its resonance in law, presents the relevant issues and solutions: loans, financial guarantees, and cash pooling; analyses an innovative possible approach to these issues; and describes new methodologies that have been implemented in practice in order to make intra-group financing more compliant with efficient corporate financing decisions and the generally accepted OECD arm's length principle. Comparing the tax measures implemented in the corporate tax law systems of forty countries, this study investigates aspects of intra-group financing as the following: - corporate finance theories, studies, and surveys regarding financing decisions; - application of the arm's length principle to limit the deductibility of interest expenses; - impact of the OECD's Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) project; - transfer pricing issues related to intra-group financing; - credit risk in corporate finance; - rationales utilized by credit rating agencies; and - assessment of arm's length nature of intra-group financing. The author describes ways in which the application of the arm's length principle has been strengthened and how the related risk of distortion and manipulation can be minimized. The solutions and methodologies proposed are applicable to the business sector. Given that determination of the arm's length nature of transactions between related companies is one of the most difficult problems currently faced by taxpayers and tax administrations around the world, this thorough assessment and analysis will prove extraordinarily useful for accountants, house and advisory practitioners, corporate officers, academics, international organizations, and government officials charged with finding effective responses to the serious issues raised. In addition to its well-researched analysis, the book's comparative overview of how loans, financial guarantees and cash pooling are currently addressed by OECD Member States and by their national courts is of great practical value in business decision-making.

Turkey in the 21st Century 01 2020 This unique book investigates the complex transformation of Turkey's foreign policy, focusing on changing threat perceptions and the reformulation of its Western identity. This transformation cannot be explained solely in terms of strategic choice or driven policies but encompasses power shifts and systemic transformations. Is Turkey shifting its axis? Will this affect its traditional Western foreign policy? The book begins by discussing the relationship between security and globalization, using examples of Turkey's regional position then focuses on to what extent the 'traditional' discourse on security in Turkish politics, which prevailed during the Cold War era and beyond, has undergone a change in the new era. This timely book is a much needed account of how pragmatism rather than ideology is the main determinant of Turkey's current foreign policy and should be read by all looking for a fresh and stimulating take on Turkey's response to globalization and the internationalization of security in the 21st Century.

May 17 2021 The portrayal of Greece by the international press during the financial crisis has been seen by many independent observers as very harsh. The Greeks have often been blamed for a myriad of international political problems and external economic problems beyond their control. In this original and insightful work George Tzogopoulos examines international newspaper coverage of the unfolding economic crisis in Greece. American, British, French, German and Italian broadsheet and tabloid coverage is carefully analysed. The Greek Crisis in the Media debates and dissects the extent to which the Greek response to the financial crisis has been given fair and balanced coverage by the press. It also explores how far politics and national stereotypes have played their part in the reporting of events. By placing the Greek experiences and treatment alongside those of other EU members such as Portugal, Ireland, Italy and Spain, Tzogopoulos examines and highlights similarities and differences in the way in which different countries tackled the challenges they faced during this crucial period and explores how and why the world's media reported the crisis.

April 23 2020 This book provides an authoritative account of how the US, British, and French armies have transformed since the end of the Cold War. All three armies have sought to respond to changes in their strategic and socio-technological environments by developing more expeditionary capable and networked forces. Drawing on extensive archival research, hundreds of interviews and unprecedented access to official documents, the authors examine both the process and the outcomes of army transformation, and ask how military interests, emerging ideas, and key entrepreneurial leaders interact in shaping the direction of military change. They also explore how programmatic change over time, as new technologies moved from research to development, and as lessons from operations were absorbed, have shaped these issues, they draw on military innovation scholarship and, in addressing them, produce findings with general relevance for the study of how militaries innovate.

March 23 2020 USAK Yearbook of Politics and International Relations, the fifth edition of which was published in 2012, is an annual, peer-reviewed, English language scholarly journal. The Editorial Office of the Yearbook is based in the central building of the International Strategic Research Organization (USAK) in Ankara, Turkey. However, the Yearbook is an independent publication in terms of scholarly research and the editors decide its publication policies. Esteemed academics dispassionately evaluate all submitted articles for their conformity with academic rules and formats. While the focal points of published articles converge on international relations, international law, political science, essentially, subjects regarding Area studies of the Balkans, the Caucasus, the Middle East, Central Asia, and Europe are also given considerable space. Additionally, pieces concerning international security, sociology, and anthropological studies are also regularly included in the Yearbook. Now entering its sixth year of compilation, the Yearbook provides a scholarly platform for academics and researchers throughout the world. The USAK Yearbook of Politics and International Relations is gifted to every dual subscriber to the Review of International Law and Politics (RILP), the Journal of Central Asia and the Caucasus (OAKA) after their first year of subscription. Indexes through which our followers can browse the Yearbook are as follows: Hein Online, International Political Science Abstracts (IPSA), PAIS International, CSA Worldwide Political Science Abstracts, CSA Sociological Abstracts, CSA Social Services Abstracts and ULAKB?M.

From Rivalry to Partnership Aug 08 2020 'From Rivalry to Partnership' is the first to study a potentially valuable way forward in tackling the challenges of Africa, namely bilateral partnerships. The book evaluates the significance and strength of the emerging Anglo-French partnership and explores how far this and other forms of 'bilateral' and 'bi-multi' cooperation might serve as a valuable alternative or complement to traditional unilateral and multilateral approaches in Africa. Practitioners, established academic experts as well emerging scholars in the field bring to bear a sophisticated synthesis of neoclassical realism and 'discursive institutionalism' and findings from over 100 research interviews to explore how such approaches and bilateral partnerships have been used to address the challenges of Africa. In developing this argument, the editors explore: ? French cooperation in Africa ? other bilateral partnerships in Africa, notably the Nordic states and the US ? the Africa-EU Strategic Partnership ? the China-Africa partnership and its implications for the EU-Africa partnership and for leading European states Written in a clear and accessible style, 'From Rivalry to Partnership' offers a much needed fresh insight into whether and how bilateral partnerships make a real difference to people on the African continent.'

Statebuilding in Afghanistan Apr 27 2022 This edited volume empirically maps and theorises NATO-ISAF's contribution to peacebuilding and reconstruction in Afghanistan. The book provides a contextual framework of the NATO participation in Afghanistan: it offers an outline of the situation in Afghanistan and discusses geopolitical, historical, and military factors that are related to it. It argues that a general underlying factor, although the stated goals of the Afghanistan mission may be similarly formulated across the ISAF coalition, that are a great number of differences in the nature of coalition members' political calculations, and share of the burden, and that this induces a dynamic of alliance politics that states attempt to either mitigate, navigate, or exploit - depending on their interests and views. The book asks why there are differences in countries' share of the burden; how they manifest in different approaches; and how the actual performance of different members of the coalition ought to be assessed. It argues that understanding this offers clues as to what does not work in current state-building efforts, beyond individual countries' experience. It offers a more general critique of statebuilding philosophy and practice. This book answers key questions through a series of case studies which together with a comparative study of national contributions to the multilateral mission in Afghanistan. In so doing, it provides a uniquely sensitive analysis that explains coalition contributions from various countries. It will be of great interest to students of Afghanistan, Asian politics, peacebuilding, statebuilding, war and conflict studies, IR and Security Studies generally.

UK and France: Friends or Foes? (Trans) cultural and legal unions and disjunctions Jul 07 2020 At a time of major changes in the United Kingdom and to a lesser extent in France, induced by the proposed Brexit process, this collective work - composed of thirteen chapters from highly experienced academics and specialist professionals from both sides of the Channel - examines their consequences on the French and British relationship of institutional, political, legal, economic, cultural but also strategic and defence-related fields with an emphasis on comparative and/or European perspectives of view. The two editors are respectively Associate Professors at Panthéon-Assas and Tours universities. Geraldine Gadbain-George is an English solicitor, a former avocat at the Paris bar and a former French judge. Elizabeth Gibson-Morgan is Visiting Senior Research Fellow at King's College London in the Department of Contemporary History.

Racism, Ethnicity and the Media in Africa Feb 11 2021 In today's Africa racism and ethnicity have been implicated in serious conflicts - from Egypt to Mali to South Africa - that have cost lives and undermined efforts to achieve national cohesion and meaningful development. Racism, Ethnicity and the Media in Africa sets about rethinking the role of media and communication in perpetuating, reinforcing and reining in racism, absolute ethnic discrimination and other discriminations across Africa. It goes beyond the customary discussion of media racism and ethnic stereotyping to critically address broader issues of identity, belonging and exclusion. Topics covered include racism in South African newspapers, pluralist media debates in Kenya, media discrimination and same-sex relations in Uganda and ethnicised news coverage in Nigerian newspapers.

War Tourism Oct 10 2020 As German troops entered Paris following their victory in June 1940, the American journalist William L. Shirer observed that they carried cameras and behaved as "naïve tourists." One of the first things Hitler did after his victory was to tour occupied Paris, where he was famously photographed in front of the Eiffel Tower. Focusing on tourism by German personnel, military and civil, and French civilians during the war, as well as war-related memory tourism since, War Tourism addresses the fundamental linkages between the two. As Bertram M. Gordon shows, Germans toured occupied France by the thousands in groups organized by their army and guided by suggestions in magazines such as Der Deutsche Wegleiter für Paris [The German Guide for Paris]. Despite the hardships imposed by war and occupation, many French civilians continued to take holidays. Facilitated by the Popular Front legislation of 1936, this solidified the practice of workers' vacations, leading to a postwar surge in tourism. After the end of the war, the phenomenon of memory tourism transformed sites such as the Maginot Line fortresses. The influx of tourists, either directly or indirectly to the war took hold and continues to play a significant economic role in Normandy and elsewhere. As France moves from a wartime to a postwar era of reconciliation and European Union, memory tourism has held strong and exerts significant influence across the continent.

The Legacy of the Baby Boomers or the French Social System? Mar 15 2021 This book aims to identify key factors influencing the increasing brain drain of French early and mid-career graduates primarily to Anglo-Saxon countries in order to avoid the inexorable outcome of their tertiary education under precarious employment conditions relegating them to the status of intellectual underclass in France. This qualitative ethnographic study investigates the experiences of 38 French nationals and expatriates aged between 21 and 48 to provide a voice to the increasing number of students and graduates who despair at the thought of witnessing their years of study culminate in a perennial cycle of training, unemployment, internship. What distinguishes the French from their European counterparts who also struggle to secure employment and a decent future? These unprecedented circumstances are as a result of the global financial crisis and the current sovereign debt predicament. Who is responsible for the quandary in which French graduates find themselves in the stratified French society of today, where globalisation has made academic mobility de rigueur? France risks losing her best talent to Generation X to more accepting countries where a spirit of meritocracy exists and economic rewards are awarded after years of tertiary education and assiduousness. A large number of constituents belonging to Baby Boomer Generation are ensconced in comfortable government positions or established in lucrative careers reserved for the upper echelons of the privileged classes. Are the Baby Boomers to blame for the predicament of Generation X, for failing to transmit intergenerational equality to subsequent generations? Will the new government deliver on the promises made to France's youth the economic rewards they deserve, and the respect and equality that the previous generation have taken for granted?

The Multicultural Dilemma Nov 30 2019 This work seeks to explore the contemporary challenge of government in multicultural societies, drawing on
